Following a full round-table of interventions concerning the individual involvement of SWG GRI members in the ongoing Horizon Europe negotiations from the gender equality perspective, it was decided that, wherever possible, SWG GRI delegates will engage with their Research Working Party attachés with a view to reinforcing provisions on gender equality in the Horizon Europe proposals.

In this regard, it was mentioned the particular importance of aspects related to gender equality in the composition of teams for the evaluation of research projects in the future Rules of Participation of the Horizon Europe package, as well as the need to take into account gender issues in the future missions for innovation.

- Information on the outcome of the ERAC Steering Board meeting on 16 October 2018

The SWG GRI Chair provided information on the outcome of the ERAC Steering Board meeting that took place on 16 October, including on comments made by the MS co-chair regarding the HU government decree to ban gender studies in Hungarian universities.

The SWG GRI endorsed the view that there are basic values on which the EU rests, including democracy, equality and academic freedom and that these need to be upheld if the European project is to have a future. In this respect, ERAC-related groups should have the possibility to make statements on important issues within their purview. The SWG GRI agreed that the chair will write a follow-up message to the ERAC co-chairs.

3. Update from the EU Presidencies (current and future)

The SWG GRI took note of updated priorities by the AT presidency, in particular on the progress made in negotiations on the Horizon Europe package and on the draft Council conclusions on the ERA.

FI delegate presented a plan for the FI PRES conference to commemorate 20th anniversary of EU activities for gender equality in research, and collected suggestions from SWG GRI delegates. The SWG GRI delegates are requested to provide input and ideas, by the end of October, with a view to the conference planned on 23 and 24 October 2019 in Helsinki. Furthermore, the SWG GRI endorsed the topic of gender harassment and violence as an important and timely topic to be addressed at the conference.
4. Update from the Commission

- Gender issues in the Horizon Europe package

Harald HARTUNG, Head of unit for Inclusive society at the Commission, updated the SWG GRI on three key elements of the ongoing negotiations of the Horizon Europe proposals along the following lines:

1. Roadmap: there is a tight scheduled if the package is to be politically concluded before the European Parliament elections next year.

2. Negotiations: the package contains several references to gender issues, including in Clusters on Health and Digital industry, as well as in the ERA chapter. Current parallel negotiations in the Council and in the EP seem both going in the direction to reinforce gender elements.

3. Strategic plan: the Council is seeking clarity on the strategic plan before end of November. Gender issues are expected to be important elements in future Partnerships for innovation.

He requested to maintain a close contact with the SWG GRI on gender issues related to the package.

Finally, he praised the utility of the policy briefs delivered by the HORIZON 2020 GENDERACTION project, distributed also to the SWG GRI.

- She figures

Roberta PATTONO, from the Commission (RTD), presented an update on the work on the "She figures".

This exercise is carried out every three years and the next publication of data and the corresponding handbook are due in March 2019.

SWG GRI delegates requested clarifications about the statistics regarding the evolution of the proportion of women among grade A positions along the years.

The Commission explained that it is currently involved in a fact-checking exercise of national data.

The data will be particularly useful as a contribution for the upcoming ERA report which is under elaboration in the Commission services.

Following a request by some SWG GRI members, the Commission clarified that a list of statistical correspondents from the Member States could only be forwarded to the SWG GRI members, only and once data protection restrictions would be lifted.
The Commission representative also requested the active involvements of the SWG GRI with a view to the 2019 edition of the Women’s day in relation to the publication of the She figures data and handbook.

The Chair elaborated on the two clusters that have been used in the report: old versus new Member States and Associated countries and the EU Innovation scoreboard.

During the debate, a number of suggestions were made, including:

- the presentation of recommendations in a more concrete way
- how to provide financial incentives at national level and the need to address the problem of sustainability along the time after a project has been funded

6. Information on the "Policy Support Facility"

7. Mutual learning exercise on gender and innovation, with a particular focus on open innovation

- Task Force (OSI) on Open Innovation

The SWG GRI heard a presentation of the work carried out by the ERAC SWG on Open Science and Innovation's Task Force on Open Innovation, by the Task Force coordinator Tomas LICHTENWÖHRER.
During the ensuing debate, the Chair of the SWG GRI pointed out that users and consumers of innovative products and services have different needs depending on their gender. This fact should be taken into account by suppliers of innovative solutions. She also drew attention to a World Economic Forum report which warns that artificial intelligence and innovation methods could bring job losses mainly for women in the future.

NO argued that a common definition of "open innovation" would have to be agreed beforehand.

The coordinator of the Open Innovation Task Force clarified that a national definition of "open innovation" had been used for the presentation, adding that innovation should also involve consumers.

FI defended the need to also integrate social innovation in a broad and inclusive context to take account of larger groups such as disabled and elderly people. The Commission recalled the huge economic potential of the gender dimension when integrated in the conception and process of innovative goods and services.

PT suggested to also use the proportion of women participating in innovative start-ups as a relevant indicator.

TR encouraged to identify areas of open innovation with the potential to generate more opportunities to women.

SK also agreed on the importance to associate end users in innovation processes.

ES was in favour of a closer cooperation between the OSI and the GRI groups in order to better address these issues.

The Task Force coordinator requested contributions from SWG GRI so that the gender perspective could be included appropriately in the final report. The Chair of the SWG GRI together with the NO and CZ representatives volunteered to help compiling a common response before the end of October to be delivered to the Open Innovation Task Force.

- Mutual Learning Exercise

SWG GRI delegates explained how gender questions are currently being taken into account within different initiatives and national policies in their respective countries. The SWG GRI agreed to start elaborating a policy brief which could be delivered at the next spring ERAC plenary session.
The policy brief should consider at least three key aspects: innovation, open innovation and social innovation.

PT and TR delegates volunteered to coordinate the work together with the SWG GRI Chair. A call for more participants will be launched.
